SCOPE AND SYLLABUS OF COURSES

SO 700: DISSERTATION

The student shall prepare a dissertation under the supervision of a teacher appointed by the Board of Control in Sociology. She/he should also demonstrate skills for the formulation of the research problem and the application of the tools of research.

SO 701: WORKSHOP IN RESEARCH METHODS

Objective

The objective of this workshop is to equip the student at the level of methodology, research design and statistical techniques, to deal with the specific problems of methods that one encounters in the preparation of a dissertation. The workshop will be geared to the needs of the individual student and will be conducted by the teachers who guide the dissertation.

SO 702: EDUCATION AND MODERNIZATION

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PAPER-SETTER AND THE CANDIDATES

The theory question paper will be of 80 marks and 20 marks will be for Term Paper.

The syllabus has been divided into four units.

The question paper shall contain 4 units. Each unit shall have two questions and the candidates shall be given internal choice of attempting one question from each Unit – 4 in all. Each question will carry 20 marks.

Objective

The Course provides a critical appraisal of the role of education as an agency of modernization in the developing countries with particular focus on the relationship between education and individual modernity in India. The pertinent question this course seeks to answer is not whether or not education promotes modernity, but what is it about education that promotes modernity, under what conditions and how? Additionally, issues like what forms education has taken in the globalized world and how education is different in the postmodern world as compared to the modern one, will form an integral part of the scholastic discussions.

The students are expected to have knowledge of the social functions of education and the interrelations of education and social change.

SO 704: DEMOGRAPHIC AND HEALTH TRANSITION IN INDIA

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PAPER-SETTER AND THE CANDIDATES

The theory question paper will be of 80 marks and 20 marks will be for Term Paper.

The syllabus has been divided into four units.

The question paper shall contain 4 units. Each unit shall have two questions and the candidates shall be given internal choice of attempting one question from each Unit – 4 in all. Each question will carry 20 marks.

Objective

Rapid transition is taking place in demographic and health sectors in India. From the mid 70s State wise variations in major demographic components-fertility, mortality, age-structure; and health components- morbidity patterns, health and family welfare services and practices, reproductive and child health care, RTI/STI and HIV show interesting patterns. Some regions have progressed remarkably well in the past, as few are rapidly catching up, while others which had been considered 'sick' (BIMARU) in the past are showing promising results. The emerging picture overall indicates that in several areas there are unexpected changes in fertility, mortality and health components of populations, while in others, the pace of change is slow but noticeable. The focus of this course will be to study the transitions in fertility, mortality and health sectors in India, identify the linkages inducing such changes and study the future trends and consequences of these transitions.

Course Content

Unit-I

Demographic and Health Transition:

- Theoretical Perspectives and Critical Review of Relevant Literature

Population Growth in India, Micro level and Interstate Variations:

- Past Trends, Current Levels and Future Scenario.

Unit-II

Fertility Transition- National and State Levels:

- Common Experience and Distinctive Patterns. The transition will be examined through several measures of fertility and reproduction. Existing explanatory models and linkages would be critically examined. In the light of new evidence, search for explanations will be carried through examining the specificity in fertility transition at the regional/state levels.

Unit-III

Mortality Transition- National and State Levels:

- Common Experience and Distinctive Patterns. The transition will be examined through several measures of mortality-CDR, age specific mortality rates ($_nq_x$), and life expectancy (e^Ox) and cause of death. Existing explanatory models and linkages would be critically examined in the light of new evidence of mortality patterns at the regional/state levels. Search for explanations will be carried through examining the specificity in mortality transition.

Unit-IV

Health Transition:

- National and State Levels: Common Experience and Distinctive Patterns. The transition will be examined through changes in the morbidity patterns by age, sex and residence. Existing explanatory models and linkages would be critically examined in the light of new evidence of morbidity patterns at the regional/state levels. Special attention will be given to discuss the RTI/STI and HIV.

SO 711: PATTERNS OF URBANIZATION IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO ASIA AND AFRICA

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PAPER-SETTER AND THE CANDIDATES

The theory question paper will be of 80 marks and 20 marks will be for Term Paper.

The syllabus has been divided into four units.

The question paper shall contain 4 units. Each unit shall have two questions and the candidates shall be given internal choice of attempting one question from each Unit – 4 in all. Each question will carry 20 marks.

Objective

All the major perspectives in Urban Sociology so far, have been formulated on the basis of western experience. The recent trends in urbanization and social change in developing countries, however, call for the need to develop alternative models to understand the patterns of urbanization in these societies, which no doubt, are significantly different from those experienced by the west. The present course, therefore, will familiarize the student with the existing perspectives on urban sociology and help to evaluate their relevance in the emerging trends of urban societies in developing countries, especially the Asian and the African.

Course Content:

Unit-I
Existing theoretical orientations to Urban Sociology-demographic approach, Ecological approach, Technological approach, and Social disorganization approach.

Unit-II
Emerging pattern of urbanization in developing countries, with special reference to Asia and Africa--- a historical sketch of urbanization and evolution of city in African and Asian societies, urbanization in colonial situation.

Unit-III
Demographic transformation trends of migration, Rural-urban differences in demographic variables.

Unit-IV
Socio-cultural transformation in urban setting--- Family, Kinship, Ethnicity, Stratification, Neighbourhood. Urbanization and urbanism. Social change in urban societies. Urbanism as a way of life. Relevance of folk-urban continuum perspective.
