(ii) In the case of Postgraduate Courses in the Faculties of Arts, Science, Languages, Education, Design & Fine Arts, and Business Management & Commerce (falling under the purview of Academic Council), where such a provision of Internal Assessment/ continuous Assessment already exists, the same will continue as before.
(iii) The marks obtained by the candidate in Continuous Internal Assessment in Postgraduate Classes from the admissions of 2007 will be shown separately in Detailed-Marks-Card (D.M.C.)

Masters in Governance and Leadership

Concept Note

The Masters in Governance and Leadership Programme is a specialized, one of its kind, inter-disciplinary post-graduate degree programme proposed to be offered by Panjab University, Chandigarh from the coming academic session (2017-18). The course would be open to students as well as persons from bureaucracy, political leaders, corporate governance and so on; people who would like to hone their governance and leadership skills with theoretical knowledge and insight into the various aspects of governance and leadership, combined with practical understanding of skills and strategies needed in this field. The course aims to impact knowledge about core leadership competencies and the ways in which these skills can be developed. It seeks to create a cadre of responsible, responsive, committed and sensitive leaders who are capable of handling national and global assignments; are adept at countering emerging national and global challenges, have an indepth understanding of the issues that plague humanity and who can truly lead from the front.

Good governance and leadership skills are a basic necessity at every level. This requisite knowledge and skills designed to enhance just, fair and responsive leadership and governance is one of the core objectives of this programme. Graduates should be able to solve complex governance and leadership challenges, explore emerging global issues that affect governance and leadership. They would have an understanding of financial and human resource management, sustainable development, public policy and programmes as well as the entire electoral and political process which would equip them to better undertake the myriad tasks of governance and leadership. Ultimately, these are the persons that will define the future course of development and democracy in India, ensure a rights based, gender sensitive governance and resolve pressing problems of conflict and poverty.

Career Prospects

- Advanced career in government and other public institutions
- Advanced career in NGOs, International Organizations, UN, EAC and others
- Teaching and training in universities and other educational and training institutions
- Leaders in private sector/ Corporate Sector
- Leadership and Development consultancy
- Other Governance related opportunities

Course Objectives

At the end of the programme, learners will have acquired a wide spectrum of knowledge and skills covering:

- Core Governance Issues/ challenges and ways of handling these
- Knowledge of political and legislative structures
- Leadership traits and skills and their practical application
- Resolving conflict
- Practical knowledge in writing, media, campaigning and other requisite leadership skills

- Legal instruments and institutional arrangements essential for successful discharge of the functions of government structures
- Strategies and instruments for embedding social, environmental, gender and human rights concerns in all phases and steps of leadership process and governance

Methodology: Class room teaching would be supplemented by seminars, practical skill training, projects, and internships. It is also proposed to have the students work for three weeks as governance associate, which would be a compulsory, but no credit part of the programme. The focus would be more on practical learning rather than lecture mode. A flexi-approach would be adopted for classes, which would be held in the afternoon/evening and full day on Saturdays so as to enable persons in various sectors to take advantage of the programme.
