Course Code: MJMC-303 (DSE)
Course Title: GRAPHIC DESIGN AND EDITING
Course Level: 200
Marks: 100 {Theory Exam- 80 + Internal Assessment-20}

(A) Course Objectives:

The course will train students in design as visual communication. Through understanding the language of design, they would learn the art and science of handling verbal and visual elements in keeping with design principles and publication policy.

(B)Learning outcome:

After the successful completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Harness design functionalities for content packaging and brand positioning.
2. Practically implement design theory through newspaper/magazine templates.

(C) Pedagogy of the Course Work:

75% Lectures (including expert lectures)

25% Unit tests, snap tests, assignments, attendance and class room participation.

Instructions for paper-setters and candidates:

1. There shall be 9 questions in all. The time allowed will be 3 hours.
2. The first question is compulsory, comprising 8 short answer type questions spread over the whole syllabus. The candidates are required to answer 4 questions in about 100-150 words each. Each question shall be worth 4 marks. (4X4 = 16 marks)

3. The rest of the paper shall contain four units. Two questions shall be asked from each unit, and the candidates shall be given internal choice. The candidates shall attempt one question from each unit. Each question will carry 16 marks. (4X16=64 marks)

UNIT-I:

- Sourcesofnewscopy;editingdifferenttypesofcopy;rewritingcopy
- Headlines:significanceandfunctions,typographicalpatternsofwritingheadlines,
- Do'sandDon'tsofheadlinewriting, headline schedule
- Copymarkingandeditingsymbols

UNIT-II:

- Significanceofpictures:briefingthecameraman,selection,editingandcroppingofpictures, writing
- Cutlines.JournalisticStyle andthe Stylebook
- Usingcomputerprogramsforonlineeditingoftextandpictures

Unit-III:

- Design Vocabulary: Point, line, plane (shape, size), scale, perspective, value, texture & pattern, colour (hue, value, intensity, colour schemes), space (positive, negative), type (width, weight, posture).
- Importance of Form-storming.
- Importance of a grid system and types of grids; placement, alignment, grouping, framing and layering of design components.
- Science of eye movement; type as para-language; space as connector and divisor; colour psychology.

Unit-IV

- Design Principles: foundational principles of balance and contrast; attendant principles of dominance, motion (hierarchy, rhythm, pattern and direction), harmony; overarching principles of Gestaltian unity (simplicity, similarity, continuity, closure, proximity, figure & ground).
- Types of Layout: symmetrical, asymmetrical and dissymmetrical, static and dynamic, regular and irregular.
- Types of page makeup: vertical, horizontal, diagonal and quadrant, frame, brace, circus/jazzy.
- Front page layout – Poster and Signal & text front page.

Practical Skill Component: Students will design a pop-up digital magazine as an end-semester group project using publication design softwares.

Course Title: RESEARCH METHODOLOGY -1
Course Level: 200
Marks: 100 {Theory Exam- 80 + Internal Assessment-20}

(A) Course Objectives:

This course serves dual objectives: one, of training young minds for scientific inquiry, and two, of acquainting them with the various methods used for conducting scientific research in media and communication studies. Both quantitative and qualitative approaches to data analysis would be studied. After completion of the course, students will be equipped to conduct projects and dissertation studies.

(B) Pedagogy of the Course Work:

80% Lectures

20% Unit tests, snap tests, assignments, attendance and class room participation.

Instructions for papersetters and candidates:

1. There shall be 9 questions in all. The time allowed will be 3 hours.
2. The first question is compulsory, comprising 8 short answer type questions spread over the whole syllabus. The candidates are required to answer 4 questions in about 100-150 words each. Each question shall be worth 4 marks. (4X4 = 16 marks)
3. The rest of the paper shall contain four units. Two questions shall be asked from each unit, and the candidates shall be given internal choice. The candidates shall attempt one question from each unit. Each question will carry 16 marks. (4X16=64 marks)

Unit I:

- The Scientific Method: primacy over other sources of knowledge
- Identification, Selection and Formulation of the research problem
- Importance of intellectual curiosity and review of literature. Determining the relevance, significance and feasibility of the research problem
- Formulating terms of inquiry – objectives, research questions and types of hypotheses. Concepts, constructs and types of variables.

Unit II:

- Introduction to Mass Communication Research: Definition, scope, role in media industries, and the research process.
- Importance of Research in Media Practice: Audience understanding, message design, media planning, policy development, and impact assessment.

- Application of Research in Media Fields: Journalism, advertising, public relations, film/television studies, digital media analytics, and political communication.

Unit III:

- Choosing an Appropriate Research Method:
    - Need for and features of a good methodological framework.
    - Longitudinal and cross-sectional approaches include census and sample surveys, content analysis, case studies, historical studies, panel studies, cohort studies, qualitative/ethnographic studies, case studies, and longitudinal researchand laboratory and field experiments.

Unit IV:

- Determining Sampling and Data Collection Strategies:
- Types of data: primary and secondary.
- Definition and importance of sampling.
- Types of probability (simple, systematic, stratified random sampling, cluster sampling, multi-stage sampling) and non-probability (convenience, purposive, volunteer, quota, snowballing) sampling methods.
- Selecting Data collection tools: Observation, Questionnaire, Scales, Interview Schedule, Focus Group Discussions.

SEMESTER IV

Course Code: MJMC-401 (Core)
Course Title: CINEMA STUDIES
Course Level: 200
Marks: 100 {Theory Exam- 80 + Internal Assessment-20}

(A)Course Objectives:

The students will develop a critical understanding of cinematic language and visual storytelling through this course. They will gain insights into the contributions of key filmmakers to the evolution of cinema and be capable of analysing the socio-political contexts of film production and reception. This course will enhance research and analytical skills for academic or professional pursuits in cinema and media. The objectives of the course are:

1. To provide an academic foundation in cinema's history, theory, and practice.
2. To critically examine the impact of cinema on culture, society, and mass communication.
3. To analyse the work of renowned filmmakers as case studies in narrative, style, and innovation.
4. To explore cinema's technological, economic, and aesthetic dimensions.

(B) Pedagogy of the Course Work:

80% Lectures

20% Unit tests, snap tests, assignments, attendance and class room participation.

Instructions for papersetters and candidates:

1. There shall be 9 questions in all. The time allowed will be 3 hours.
2. The first question is compulsory, comprising 8 short answer type questions spread over the whole syllabus. The candidates are required to answer 4 questions in about 100-150 words each. Each question shall be worth 4 marks. (4X4 = 16 marks)
3. The rest of the paper shall contain four units. Two questions shall be asked from each unit, and the candidates shall be given internal choice. The candidates shall attempt one question from each unit. Each question will carry 16 marks. (4X16=64 marks)

Unit-I

- History of Cinema:Early cinema (Lumière Brothers, Méliès), the Transition from silent films to sound cinema, and the Growth of the global film industry (Hollywood, European, and Asian cinema).
- Film Language:Mise-en-scène: Space, composition, and visual aesthetics
- Cinematography: Camera movements, angles, and lighting; Editing: Continuity, montage, and pacing

- Theoretical Frameworks:Realism (Bazin) and Formalism (Eisenstein), Auteur Theory (Truffaut, Sarris), Semiotics and Structuralism

Unit-II

- Evolution of Indian Cinema:Silent era and the first talkie (Raja Harishchandra), Growth of Hindi and regional cinemas
- Parallel Cinema and New Wave Movements:Role of Satyajit Ray, Mrinal Sen, and Shyam Benegal, Emergence of New Wave cinema

Course Title: Internship + Media Visit + Major Project
Course Level: 200, DSE
Marks: 100

1. Internship Report 40
2. Media Visit Report- 10 Marks
3. Major Project Report – 50

Course Code: MJMC-405 (RBC)
Course Title: PRACTICAL 4
Course Level: 200,
Marks: 100

1.Research Based Term Paper: 55 Marks

2. Practical's based on P-I,II,III of 15 marks each will be conducted and evaluated by concerned teacher.

Course Code: MJMC-406 (RBC)
Course Title: RESEARCH METHODOLOGY -2
Course Level: 200
Marks: 100 {Theory Exam- 80 + Internal Assessment-20}

(A) Course Objectives:

This course serves dual objectives: one, of training young minds for scientific inquiry, and two, of acquainting them with the various methods used for conducting scientific research in media and communication studies. Both quantitative and qualitative approaches to data analysis would be studied. The students would be given a basic training in the use of Excel and SPSS for the purpose of data presentation and analysis. After completion of the course, students will be equipped to conduct projects and dissertation studies.

(B) Pedagogy of the Course Work:

80% Lectures

20% Unit tests, snap tests, assignments, attendance and class room participation.

Instructions for papersetters and candidates:

1. There shall be 9 questions in all. The time allowed will be 3 hours.
2. The first question is compulsory, comprising 8 short answer type questions spread over the whole syllabus. The candidates are required to answer 4 questions in about 100-150 words each. Each question shall be worth 4 marks. (4X4 = 16 marks)
3. The rest of the paper shall contain four units. Two questions shall be asked from each unit, and the candidates shall be given internal choice. The candidates shall attempt one question from each unit. Each question will carry 16 marks. (4X16=64 marks)

Unit I: Foundations of Advanced Media Research

- Advanced concepts in mass communication theory and research paradigms
- Epistemological approaches: positivist, interpretivist, critical, and mixed frameworks
- Research problem formulation, hypothesis development, and variable operationalization

Unit II: Quantitative and Computational Research Methods

- Advanced quantitative designs: experiments, quasi-experiments, longitudinal and panel studies
- Statistical techniques: multivariate analysis, regression modeling, factor analysis, and advanced data visualization
- Computational methods: big data analytics, sentiment analysis, social network analysis, algorithmic media research
- Use of software tools (e.g., SPSS, R, Python) for data processing, automation, and modeling

Unit III: Qualitative, Mixed, and Emerging Methodologies

- Advanced qualitative approaches: ethnography, grounded theory, discourse analysis, and digital ethnography
- Triangulation and mixed-method designs for complex media research problems
- Audience studies, user experience (UX) research, and participatory/creative methodologies
- Emerging trends: AI-driven research, neuromarketing, eye-tracking, and immersive media evaluation (AR/VR)

Unit IV:

- Ethical considerations in advanced media research, including digital and AI contexts
- Report Writing and presentations
- Graphic and tabular representation of data using MS Word Excel/SPSS.
- Bibliography and Citations

Practical skill component: Students will use these research methods to carry out their minor and major projects and their dissertations.
