RBC-I: RESEARCH BASED COURSE (RBC) - This course is compulsory

WSGL 305: BASICS OF SOCIAL RESEARCH

Time: 3 Hours
Marks: 100

Objectives: This course aims at providing the students with a firm grounding in research methodology through a comprehensive understanding of the concepts as well as the tools and techniques employed in research in social sciences in general, and women's studies in particular. The students shall also be familiarized with the basic statistical concepts used in social research. Specifically it seeks to to provide a foundational understanding of the Scientific Method and its application in Social Sciences and to grasp the Quantitative Research Process, from hypothesis testing to sampling. Further, to develop proficiency in Basic Statistics and data processing tools essential for evidence-based policy research.

Pedagogy of the Course Work: Lectures, assignments, presentations, documentaries and other media

Course Outcomes: After the completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Understand the meaning, scope, and significance of social research and the application of the scientific method in social sciences.
2. Differentiate between concepts, constructs, facts, theories, and hypotheses, and apply inductive and deductive reasoning in research.
3. Develop awareness regarding research ethics, including informed consent, anonymity, confidentiality, and prevention of plagiarism.
4. Identify research problems, formulate research questions, and conduct literature reviews using appropriate academic sources.
5. Understand different sources of data and apply various tools of data collection such as surveys, questionnaires, interviews, and observation.
6. Examine different types of research designs and sampling methods used in social science research.
7. Develop an understanding of variables, levels of measurement, and representative sampling in quantitative research.
8. Acquire basic skills in data processing, coding, tabulation, and statistical analysis using Excel/SPSS.
9. Apply measures of central tendency and dispersion for the interpretation and analysis of quantitative data.
10. Develop skills in report writing, interpretation of findings, and academic citation using APA and MLA styles.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PAPER SETTERS AND THE CANDIDATES

(i) There will be 80 marks for the theory paper and 20 marks for internal assessment.

(ii) For improvement and reappear candidates, who have not been assessed earlier for internal assessment, the marks secured by them in the theory paper will proportionately be increased to maximum marks of the paper in lieu of internal assessment.

The paper setter must put note (ii) in the question paper.

There shall be 9 questions in all, out of which the candidate shall attempt 5 questions. First question shall be Short Answer type containing 15 short questions spread over the whole syllabus to be answered in about 25 to 30 words. The candidate is required to attempt any 10 short answer type questions of 2 marks each. It shall carry 20 marks and shall be compulsory. Rest of the paper shall contain 4 units. Each Unit shall have two questions and the candidate shall attempt one question from each Unit- 4 in all.

Unit I: Foundations of Social Research:

- Meaning of Research, Pure vs. Applied Research; the significance of social research
- The Scientific Method: Definition, Objectives, Application to Social Sciences, Issues of Subjectivity- Objectivity
- Conceptual Foundations:
    - Difference between Concepts and Constructs; Fact and Theory
    - Hypothesis: Features, Types, Induction and Deduction.
- Ethics and Integrity in Research: Informed consent, anonymity, and preventing plagiarism.

Unit II: The Research Process:

- Steps in Research
- Formulating the Research Problem and defining research questions.
- Techniques for Literature review
- Data Sources: Primary and. Secondary data
- Tools of Data Collection:
    - Surveys & Questionnaires
    - Interviews: Structured and semi-structured formats.
    - Observation: Controlled and Uncontrolled.

Unit III: Research Design and Sampling:

- Research Design
    - Definition
    - Typology: Exploratory, Descriptive, Diagnostic, and Experimental Design
    - Issues in Research Design
- Sampling:
    - Probability Sampling: Simple Random, Systematic, Stratified, Cluster sampling, Multi-Stage Sampling.
    - Non-Probability Sampling: Purposive, Quota, and Snowball Sampling.
- Representative sample and Sampling Error

Unit IV: Quantitative Data Processing, Statistics and Report Writing:

- Variables-Discrete and Continuous; Independent and Dependent
- Levels of Measurement: Nominal, Ordinal, Interval, and Ratio scales.
- Data Processing: Editing, Coding (using Excel/SPSS basics)
- Descriptive Statistics:
    - Measures of Central Tendency: Mean, Median, Mode
    - Measures of Dispersion: Range, Variance, and Standard Deviation.

- Tabulation, Cross-tabulation and Graphic Representation of Data.
- Interpretation and Analysis of Data
- Technical Writing: Structure of a Quantitative Research Report; Citations (APA/MLA styles).

Semester III

M.A (GOVERNANCE AND LEADERSHIP) with Research

WSGL: 306- Dissertation Marks: - 100

Objective: Governance and Leadership cannot be limited to the class room. The students can be aware of the realities only if they go into the field and interact with society and the people. Further, the students must be trained not only in the theoretical aspects of research methodology, but in the practical aspects through actually carrying out an impact based study. It is with this objective that a compulsory paper on dissertation has been conceived.

The broad areas for research would be:

- Gender and Governance
- Digital Governance and E-Governance
- Public Policy and Social Development
- Leadership and Organizational Behaviour
- Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI)
- Local Governance and Decentralization
- Citizenship and Democratic Participation
- Environment, Climate Change, and Sustainability
- Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) and ESG
- Conflict Resolution, Peace, and Mediation
- Social Entrepreneurship and Innovation
- Emerging Feminist and Social Research Methodologies
- Gender Equality
- Human Rights

(These are only some of the identified areas. Students can choose from other areas also.)

The students will be required to take up a empirical study in which they will be required to submit a written report of about 45-55 pages.

The frame work of the Report shall be as follows:

• Title Page containing title of project, name of candidate and name of supervisor

• Table of contents

• Introductory Chapter consisting of statement of the problem, review of literature (minimum of 09 books / articles), Research Questions/ hypothesis, Objectives and Methodology

• 2-3 main chapters

• Concluding chapter presenting the conclusions arrived at from the study

• Select Bibliography

• Annexure.

- The Dissertation has to be compulsorily submitted by the student before one week prior to the commencement of the semester end examination.

Supervisor

For the purpose of conducting Dissertation, the students shall be required to work underaSupervisorappointedfromwithintheDepartmentalFacultybytheAcademicand Administrative Committees of the Department.

Note for Evaluation: The candidate will be assessed for 60marks on the basis of the written report and for 40 marks on the basis of a viva voce examination.

Board of Examiners for Evaluation (including written Report and viva voce)

The Board of Examiners shall consist of:

a) One Faculty member of the Dept cum Centre for Women's Studies nominated by the Departmental Academic and Administrative Committees of the Department

Committee- Expert

b) The Supervisor/s of the candidate

c) Chairperson shall be on the Board only for viva voce examination.

The written Dissertation submitted by the students shall be evaluated by one faculty member nominated by the Academic Committee in consultation with the supervisor.

A viva-voce for 40 marks shall be conducted by a Board of Examiners.

Semester IV:

Core Paper I: WSGL 401: Gender and Governance

Time: 3 Hours

Max. Marks: 100

Course Objectives: The objective of the course is to understand the relationship between gender, power and governance and to examine patriarchy, gender inequality and discrimination in society and institutions. Further, to analyze international and national frameworks for gender justice and equality and to study women's participation, representation and leadership in governance.

Pedagogy: The course will be taught through lectures, case studies, policy analysis, group discussions, and review of national and international gender frameworks. Emphasis will be placed on critical thinking, participatory learning, and analysis of contemporary issues related to gender, governance, and public policy.

Course Outcomes: After the completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Understand the concepts of gender, patriarchy, masculinity, gender socialization, equality, equity, and power relations in society and governance.
2. Analyze gender inequality and discrimination through national and international frameworks related to gender justice, human rights, and governance.
3. Examine the role of international mechanisms such as United Nations frameworks, CEDAW, SDGs, and gender mainstreaming in promoting women's rights and equality.
4. Develop an understanding of women's participation and representation in governance institutions, including Parliament, local bodies, civil services, and public administration in India.
5. Critically evaluate contemporary gender and governance issues related to public policy, marginalized communities, LGBTQ+ rights, women-led development, and challenges in inclusive policy-making.

Core Paper III: WSGL 403: Environment, Climate Change & Sustainable Development

Time: 3 Hours

Max. Marks: 100

Course Objectives: The objectives of the course is to understand the basic concepts of environment and climate change and to study the global cooperation and governance on environmental issues. Furthermore, to examine the idea of sustainable development as a policy framework and to analyze India's environmental laws, institutions, and policies. To focus on the social and equity dimensions of climate change.

Pedagogy: The course will be taught through lectures, case studies, policy analysis, and discussions on global and national environmental issues. Emphasis will be placed on interactive learning, critical thinking, and application of sustainability concepts through real-world environmental challenges and policy frameworks.

Course Outcomes: After the completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Understand the basic concepts of environment, climate change, and major environmental challenges such as pollution, biodiversity loss, and resource depletion.
2. Analyze global environmental governance frameworks including UNFCCC, IPCC, UNEP, and international agreements such as the Paris Agreement.
3. Examine the principles of sustainable development and the role of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in addressing environmental challenges.
4. Evaluate India's environmental constitutional provisions, laws, institutions, and policy initiatives related to climate action and conservation.
5. Critically assess environmental issues from the perspectives of climate justice, equity, and the Global North–South divide.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PAPER SETTERS AND THE CANDIDATES

(i) There will be 80 marks for the theory paper and 20 marks for internal assessment.

(ii) For improvement and reappear candidates, who have not been assessed earlier for internal assessment, the marks secured by them in the theory paper will proportionately be increased to maximum marks of the paper in lieu of internal assessment.

- Environment, Climate Change, and Sustainability
- Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) and ESG
- Conflict Resolution, Peace, and Mediation
- Social Entrepreneurship and Innovation
- Emerging Feminist and Social Research Methodologies
- Gender Equality
- Human Rights

(These are only some of the identified areas. Students can choose from other areas also.)

The students will be required to take up a empirical study in which they will be required to submit a written report of about75-85 pages.

The frame work of the Report shall be as follows:

• Title Page containing title of project, name of candidate and name of supervisor

• Table of contents

• Introductory Chapter consisting of statement of the problem, review of literature (minimum of 15 books/ articles), Research Questions/ hypothesis, Objectives and Methodology

• 3-4 main chapters

• Concluding chapter presenting the conclusions arrived at from the study

• Select Bibliography

• Annexure.

- The Dissertation has to be compulsorily submitted by the student before one week prior to the commencement of the semester end examination.

Supervisor

For the purpose of conducting Dissertation, the students shall be required to work under a Supervisor appointed from within the Departmental Faculty by the Academic and Administrative Committees of the Department.

Note for Evaluation: The candidate will be assessed for 120 marks on the basis of the written report and for 80 marks on the basis of aviva voce examination.
